

Corporate Training

GlobalArts to Go offers a wide range of professional training & educational workshops designed for:

corporate events + product launches + meetings + conferences + staff gatherings + on-line / distance learning + teambuilding + off-site meetings and more!

Our Mission

GlobalArts to Go strives to bring diverse populations together in positive, creative ways to improve professional development skills. We promote more effective communication. By utilizing proven best practices and multicultural considerations we help maximize successful relationships amongst colleagues and clients!

Who?

Since 2005, GlobalArts to Go has been working with companies to help develop training materials and facilitate professional development workshops, seminars, conferences and Webinars.

We specialize in working with companies that want to improve both internally and externally. Our team of training facilitators tailor design teaching and learning materials for diverse professionals from top level executives to administrative personnel.

What?

Do you need to improve communication internally?

Do you need to develop stronger teams amongst company employees?

Is there a lack of effective time management?

Are employees stressed?

Do you need help exploring and understanding culturally diverse employees and/or clients to improve: work - productivity - sales - communication?

Do you need to boost creativity and problem solving skills?

Do you need better marketing?

How?

All Training starts with a simple Client needs assessment. We then develop a custom-designed training proposal. Workshops can be delivered on-site, through Webinars or, off-site. Workshops are available as a single session, or part of a series. All participants receive a Training Packet with key workshop concepts, strategy tips, policies, workshop outcomes and best practices.
